

FTP Research & Policy Analysis Internship Application – Spring 2027

About FTP

FTP is a bipartisan, full-service government relations and public affairs firm based in Washington, D.C. Founded in 2012, FTP offers a comprehensive suite of services—including government relations, strategic communications, grassroots advocacy, and digital strategy. Recognized as one of Bloomberg Government's top-performing lobbying firms and a PRNEWS Top Elite 120 agency, FTP provides exceptional service to its clients across industries

Program Description

The FTP internship program offers students and recent graduates substantive, practical, and hands-on experience working at the nexus between the public and private sectors on some of the biggest policy issues facing our country. Working closely with staff, interns will utilize their deep understanding of the legislative process and their analytical, research, and writing skills to support the firm's bipartisan professionals across a wide range of topic areas included technology, agriculture, telecommunications, and more.

Research & Policy Analysis interns conduct legislative and policy analyses, attend and report on congressional hearings and briefings, and draft a broad array of research memoranda. This important work is used by FTP's principals and clients to inform and guide decision-making on issues.
